

A Marigold needs to grow!

Watching the world at work and at play...

MARIGOLD is a story about seasons changing and flowers growing. The book is also about watching the world to see what else is happening at the same time.

Many things can be in a story about a flower. Flowers and plants do not live or grow all alone. The flowers need some of the things in the book so they can grow. Some things in the story will not help the flower grow at all.

Which things on this page do you think help flowers grow? Can you find them in the book?

Why do you think the artist put things in her book that the flower does not need? What would the book be like if she left all those things out?
